RECORD WHEAT PRICE

Dollar wheat, the dream of the farmer, for many a long year in the province, is an actual fact in Edmonton at the present time, according to Alderman Campbell, of the milling firm of Campbell and Ottewill. Wheat last Thursday, he says, was selling in Fort William for $1.14, which brings it to about one dollar in Edmonton, with 97c for No. 2 Northern.

The local wheat market, says Alderman Campbell, is at present a little uncertain, owing to the fact that as yet there have been hardly any deliveries, and consequently a market has not yet been established.

"The war," he continued, "makes wheat dealing a somewhat risky proposition. If the war were to end soon, the effect would be a sudden drop in prices."

John Gillespie, of the Gillespie Elevator company, said last Thursday that his company had not yet received any deliveries of new wheat. He thought the price was around 95c, which was higher than he had ever seen it in the Edmonton district. The price, he said, was fluctuating a good deal, and the prospects were that it would go still higher.

Lloyd Humphrey, of Calgary, spent Labor Day visiting relatives in Mirror.

What The Women Of Alberta Can Do

The women of Alberta, in common with women all over the Dominion, can render valuable practical assistance to the soldiers who have so willingly volunteered for active service and are now on their way to the front, by furnishing the army medical corps with the following articles:

FOR WARD USE.—Pillow cases, towels, tablecloths, medicine cloths, tensile cloths, roller towels, toilet tissue, wringers, hot water bottle covers, bandages of all descriptions, mugs, canisters, knitted jackets.

FOR PATIENTS' USE.—Girdle shirts, socks, handkerchiefs, dressing gowns, slippers, shirts, of flannel for hospital cases, flannel jackets, bed socks, pyjamas, flannel underwear, abdominal binders, knitted.

These lists have been supplied by the Canadian Relief Committee formed at a meeting held recently at Government House, Ottawa, when the three leading Hospital Aid Societies of Canada passed the following resolution:

"That this meeting recommends that all three organizations viz: the Canadian Red Cross Society, the St. John's Ambulance Association, and the St. John's Ambulance Brigade co-operate in the formation of voluntary aid detachments, male and female, throughout Canada and especially so far as the women of Canada are concerned, to make such articles for the use of the troops in the field as laid down in the scheme of voluntary medical aid in Canada."

A shipment of articles such as those named above will be made from Edmonton to the central committee at Ottawa within the next few weeks and all societies or individuals desiring to co-operate by contributing some of their own work should communicate at once with the Provincial Secretary, St. John's Ambulance Association.

T. G. COOK TRIAL AT WAINWRIGHT

It is expected that the case of the crown in the Crawford murder case at Wainwright, in which the capital charge has been laid against T. G. Cook, of Wainwright, will be concluded tonight (Thursday.)

Several witnesses were examined Wednesday afternoon. The most important testimony was with regard to a fork which was found in the house on the Cook farm after the murder, and which it is supposed was used in burying the body in the well. A. Whiston, tenant of the Cook farm until April of this year, when he gave up possession, the place having since been vacant, said the fork was not there when he left. Geo. Rusholt, employed at the Cook lumber yard, identified the fork as one which was kept in the stable in the lumber yard, only witness and the accused having keys to this stable.

William Dewar said that on the night of the murder, at 11.45 p.m., as he was walking down Main street from the country, he saw two men with a democrat near the place where Crawford was last seen alive. The democrat came out from some bushes on a vacant lot, and witness distinctly heard a moan as he passed. One man was driving, and the other man was standing up in the rig at the rear, and on the floor of the rig was some object—Edmonton Bulletin
